Use the Abstract page to complete your poster abstract submission. General guidelines and tips are there to help guide you along the way through the submission process.

Background

- a. Describes the problem being researched;
- b. Provides historical perspective or context for the research project;
- c. Describes literature/research findings on the subject, and the "gap" that highlights the need for research on the subject.
- d. Connects clearly to the purpose/objective.
- e. Is written using complete sentences, proper grammar, punctuation and spelling;
- f. Does not mention proprietary or brand names. (Note: When referencing your own organization throughout the abstract, use "this organization" or "this provider" rather than your company's name.)

0 words
0 characters

Purpose

- a. Describes the question you are trying to answer with your project;
- b. Clearly state your hypothesis—what you believe the results will show. (Note: Your hypothesis may be based on the literature search you conducted, and your past experience/knowledge of the subject. This "best guess" helps you determine what research methods to use as you work to prove or disprove your theory)
- c. Conveys the reason for conducting the project;
- d. Is written using complete sentences, proper grammar, punctuation and spelling;
- e. Does not mention proprietary or brand names. (Note: When referencing your own organization throughout the abstract, use "this organization" or "this provider" rather than your company's name.)

0 words

Methods

- a. Provides a succinct overview of the research study steps taken and the procedure followed for data collection and documentation;
- b. Indicates the study's basic design (e.g., randomized controlled trial, cohort, survey, cost-effectiveness analysis);
- c. Includes a notation regarding IRB (Institutional Review Board) approval if human subjects were included in the study;
- d. Briefly describes any statistical analyses that were used and how they allowed you to address the hypothesis.
- e. Includes the timeline during which the project took place;
- f. Briefly describes the characteristics of the "population" (number of participants, factors used to determine participant inclusion and exclusion from the study, etc.);
- g. Reflects a sample size that is sufficiently large to support the conclusions drawn from the results shared later in the abstract;
- h. Is written using complete sentences, proper grammar, punctuation and spelling;
- i. Only one mention of a proprietary or brand name is permitted in this section (Note: When referencing your own organization throughout the abstract, use "this organization" or "this provider" rather than your company's name.)

0 words

Results

- a. Begins by mentioning whether the research study/procedure proved or disproved the hypothesis;
- b. Presents the results—quantitative, qualitative, and/or descriptive, as applicable;
- c. Includes relevant statistical information, such as confidence intervals and levels of statistical significance;
- d. Is written in narrative format, saving "visual" elements such as lists, tables, graphs, photos and/or illustrations for the poster itself;
- e. Is written using complete sentences, proper grammar, punctuation and spelling;
- f. Does not mention proprietary or brand names.
- g. Provides sufficient detail to support the conclusions.

0 words

Discussion

- a. Reminds the reader of the primary lesson learned and states whether the hypothesis was supported;
- b. Explains the outcome and findings' relevance to the field and contribution to the practice of home infusion;
- c. Addresses Implications for future research, practice or replication of the Idea/Innovation; (Note: Use caution when applying your results to a broader population—the sample size that was studied must be sufficiently large to support such scalability)
- d. Statements are clearly supported by the findings in results section;
- e. Is written using complete sentences, proper grammar, punctuation and spelling;
- f. Does not mention proprietary or brand names.

Conclusions

The NHIA Foundation (NHIF) has adopted the Poster Session at the NHIA Annual Conference as part of its efforts to advance NHIF's mission of promoting investigator-initiated research related to home and specialty infusion. NHIF will award a $1000 scholarship to the individual practitioner from a home infusion provider who submits an abstract that best meets the following criteria:

- Selects a topic that examines an innovative approach to clinical practice, identifies a best practice, or improves quality.
- Is relevant to a current challenge, issue, or question facing the home infusion industry.
- Employs an effective study design/methodology to achieve results.
- Has the ability for expansion into a larger study.

In addition to the cash award, the winning author will receive support for developing a manuscript for publication of their research in INFUSION Journal, as well as complimentary registration to the 2025 NHIA Annual Conference.

Finalists for the NHIF Outstanding Abstract Achievement Award will be invited to give a short (10-15 minute) podium presentation providing an overview of the research project and summarizing their findings during a live webinar prior to the conference in Austin. Finalists (lead author or designee) must be available to participate in this presentation session to be eligible for the award. Industry abstract submissions are not eligible for the NHIF award program.

Update

* Financial Relationship are those relationships in which the individual benefits by receiving a salary, royalty, intellectual property rights, consulting fee, honoraria, ownership interest (e.g., stocks, stock options or other ownership interest, excluding diversified mutual funds), or other financial benefit. Financial benefits are usually associated with roles such as employment, management position, independent contractor (including contracted research), consulting, speaking and teaching, membership on advisory committees or review panels, board membership, and other activities for which remuneration is received or expected. ACCME considers relationships of the person involved in the CME activity to include financial relationships of a spouse or partner. The ACCME has not set a minimum dollar amount for relationships to be significant. Inherent in any amount is the incentive to maintain or increase the value of the relationship.
